

COM421 Project 1 – Self Critique

The overall website seems to work well visually on a standard screen-size of a laptop or bigger but as the CSS is not set to be responsive therefore the visual will be very distorted if the site is viewed using an iPad or mobile device. The color scheme and the font-style of the site is also subjective to my preferences so it might not appeal to others' readability. Furthermore, I could've added css to let the user know which page we are on (Home, Research, Topic) by designing the Navbar as well as standardized the width/height of the content area and sidebars across all pages.
